

Health Reform

I don't like the NHS, and I don't like social services either. Especially after the illegal break in, where I was detained against my will for a period of 48 hours because I was a witch. Which incidentally included me witnessing the assault of an old bloke, as he was slammed against the wall, because he wanted to be out of his room. as I went back to lying on the bed, ignoring his screams of protest/going to his aid, because I was scared of being held longer as well. I wanted to be let out. I had informed them of the law, and they had no basis under European, international, or british law to be holding me at all, in a scenario reminiscent of the T-4 wards and concentration camps of nazi Germany.

Which is why inter alia I want to axe social services as well as the people involved had committed fraud, using the 1983 mental health act to do it, as well.

Now there will be those who argue, your not allowed to do that under the mental health act - and they would be right - but the police still broke in with no warrant, because of her fraudulent testimony. as she seemed to object to human rights/European law in general, and wanted to prove a point with British law. which is why she broke it. It had nothing to do with my book god is evil, the devil is good [apparently saying my book title is a crime!] in which I cited an argument for hanging myself off the A1, with the American, Iranian, and Israeli flags. with an empty fuel cat from under foot, originally planned for October 31.st [They broke in on the 27th] but more a case that I knew the law, and wanted to prove a point, as alas I foolish admitted to not having read the mental health act at the time, which is why they did it and they hadn't checked their facts.

Now I could have perhaps overlooked the illegal break in, by 4 police offices, and that vile women when I was in the bath. if it were not for the fact that I was taken against my will (under threat of force) to darlington hospital. whereupon I was told, that I was unable to be realised – despite article 5, until a doctor had signed off on me. This meant I had to say overnight. whereupon I was subjected to further degrading treatment as they watched me piss, and shit.

Instead of realising me, the doctor refused wanting another reason other then article 5, and the fact I had to go to the bank to transfer money. saying he could hold me here for 28 days if he wanted to, he was a moron on a power trip, who had no respect for my life, or my business, and they refused to hand over the evidence as well. From what I could see. I only got on there because of my site, and the fact I started writing a letter on the hour, ever hour threatening legal action, press and a political response.

Since then the police changed their storey and argued section 17 of pace, as one of the morons obviously checked the statute. notwithstanding the aforementioned article is discussed in the police sergeants hand book as part of the exams. Subsequently the replacement door which was promised at the time of the break in, never materialised and they in turn refused to press charges against Yevonne Travers under inter alia section 126 of the act for her fraud because I had complained to the IPCC about their actions.

The policeman had argued on the drive down, they only broke in because I had shut the door in her face, which is insufficient grounds if it were true, and it wasn't, and there are other witnesses which could co-operate that.

In the meantime the health budget stands at £119 billion a year. which is up from the £35 billion a year the NHS used to be on when labour came to power. £89 billion goes to the NHS currently. I think this is an unacceptable rise and a waste of tax payers cash and they continually demonstrate a lack of respect for human rights, the law and money in general.

that doctors arrogance, and lack of respect cost me time and money. As well as inter alia £150+ in bank charges alone. Further to which I was cuffed in public, in front of clients, in a deliberate attempt to destroy my business. and I will retaliate in kind. If they would see my business destroyed, I would see theirs destroyed, and you can shove that up your pipe and smoke it. As I want to cut the budget back to around £45 billion instead.

This will almost certainly result in the privatisation of the health service. With the remainder going into a public health insurance, which will cover basic care. The rest can be made up in fees. Assuming anyone is stupid enough to use them that is, as I think they are a waste of money and a detriment to society as is, and others who have witnessed their negligence first hand agree. as we can't afford to pay morons like that. They have to learn to live with the economy, and that means they expand and contract as our nation grows. Health is a luxury, and they can't even get that right currently as is.

Their help lines are a joke, and just quote the illness of the day, and their research articles on their web site more so. (The lay outs a mess, and its hard to find what you want or need) I could write an expert system with video/images which would give better advice than those idiots, for infinitely less than what they are currently wasting now.

So yes I have no respect for the NHS, or British doctors in general, and as my French ex was fond of saying, they couldn't diagnose squat!

further to which I am horrified that we have people in the mental health world who haven't read around i.e. the occult, the tree of life, psychic development when they are potentially coming into contact with people opening up, I was experienced, but someone less so. could have been damaged for life!

The last thing they need, is some moron spouting that schitzo-phrenia nonsense at them, trying to make them think they are ill, as the jealous blind man removes their sight. . We should be allowed to develop out talents appropriately, without being scared off, or persecuted with incompetence, or worse plied with drugs. as these morons have no idea with what they are dealing with at all.

Further to which this "just following orders" crap has to go, its almost as though the NHS employs people deliberately to persecute with far too many carrying a grudge to work.

In the meantime I think their entire attitude is counter productive to health, and kills people. Especially with life threatening illnesses, which are potentially more spiritual in nature at the helm. They think money wins, it does not. They have billions and people still die, while other people save people with house hold appliances (drills) on the fly, and as such I know they are fobbing people off, looking for excuses, and their budgets have to go. notwithstanding I need the nhs to change to this model, for compatibility with the rest of the world.

So yes, I have nothing but contempt for the NHS, and I will axe social services, and yes I prefer the east to the west, and I would most likely take the shamanic/reiki healer over the nhs doctor anyday and yes I am increasingly sceptical of this reality currently- and I don't trust any of them anymore See shipman for more.
